Managing Emerald Ash Borer

Ever since the emerald ash borer swept the Midwest 20 years ago the pursuit was on to stop these pests. Today not only do we have tools to fight this insect but we are developing better management techniques every day.

Treating ash trees has long been shown to be effective against emerald ash borer. Our specialized treatment is injected into the trunk of a tree and travels throughout the live parts of leaves and stems.

If an ash tree is left untreated there are direct costs as the tree dies like removal, replacement, and potential loss of property or life when branches break. Indirect costs include increased run off, loss of home and yard shade, and lower property values. It is also important to consider the sentimental value of specific trees when planted to honor a loved one.

Keeping trees alive allows communities to benefit from advances in emerald ash borer management. There is great promise for the future. Parasitoids may be able to lower the total number of emerald ash borer and reduce the number of ash trees they are able to kill.

Call and schedule a No-Cost Consultation with one of our six ISA certified arborists to assess the trees on your property and how best to maximize their health by letting the experts manage the destructive insects on your property.

Shakin' the Family Tree

I couldn't ask for a better bunch of experts and that's why I want to give my team kudos for the great work they provide daily. They are simply the best around and I am a success because we all hold the same values.

1. Helping and positive 2. Reliable 3. Trustworthy 4. Hard working

This is due to continuing education and certification to stay on top. Thanks to these guys we have exemplary service, quality workmanship and longstanding client relationships.

The business stays active in the community supporting other local businesses and actively participates in mentorship for anyone interested in becoming arborists.

This is a tough business; it's no walk in the park. I'm so fortunate to have these guys – I am very thankful for their help in accomplishing our business goals. We advertise on social media to stay out there for recognition and information, but much of our work is referrals that are generated by our work crews.

Of course, tree work isn't easy. For every success story like mine there are numerous failures. That's really why McCullough's Tree Service is a success; I get the honor to work with the greatest crews in the world.

Thoughts from the Tree House

Q: What did the Jedi say to the sacred tree?

A: May the forest be with you.

Give me six hours to chop down a tree and I will spend the first four sharpening the axe.

- Abraham Lincoln

“A tree is such a rich metaphor in a million beautiful ways. You can consider a tree growing and consider its connection to all things above and under the ground.”
